

Poetry & Prose

Infinity

by Jo Christopher M. Resquites, ASPE

I hear birds humming in my ears.
The morning sunshine is glittering in my eyes.
The raindrops falling are a refreshing sound in the house terrace.

The healing joy of laughter sparkles in the eyes of a child—a witness to the beauty of creation.

The world is perfectly created, but it is not complete.
I will meet you in my imagination,
where we find more truth as the world nears completion. Ω

Reality

by Jo Christopher M. Resquites, ASPE

Visualizing your dream
Makes you align with an external surrounding.

Though fear correlates with imagination,
Creation of thoughts empowers the outer forces of realization. Ω